Evans and Sontag Now Said to Have Been Seen in Mexico.

A Ship That Had Been Given Up as Lost Arrives in San Francisco—Catch of the Arctic Whaling Fleet—Coast News.

By Telegraph to The Times.

FRESNO, Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] T. A. Ballong returned from the mountains tonight and brought news that white men and Indians got into a drunken row at a store at Stephenson's mill Sunday night. Weapons were drawn. In the melee an Indian named "Old Joquin" was stabbed to death and another Indian was horribly mutilated. Squaws came and carried away the body of the dead Indian and buried it. No warrants have been issued and it is not very likely any will be asked.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

The Plan for a Widows' and Orphans' Home to Be Carried Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] During today's session of the Grand Lodge of Masons the members of the Judiciary Committee made a report upon the proposition for establishing a widows' and orphans' home, which had been referred to them for their opinion upon the legal points involved. The report was to the effect that the plans for the erection and maintenance of the institution were strictly in accordance with the laws of the order and State.

In consequence of this report the Finance Committee is to appropriate $5,000 from the funds of the Grand Lodge, which will be added to the $45,000 already received from various sources, so that work may be pushed forward without undue delay. The master of the selection of a site is to be left to the grand trustees, with no limitation other than that the home shall be located somewhere in the vicinity of San Francisco.

THE ARCTIC WHALERS.

Part of Their Season's Catch Arrives at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] The steam whaler Karlik arrived this morning, bringing 12,000 pounds of bone. Capt. Everett has been ill with heart disease and lung trouble ever since the steamer left the Arctic. Grave doubts of his recovery are expressed. The vessel came down under command of First Mate Wing. The Karlik brings the catch of the whaling fleet as follows: Jesse H. Freeman, Helen Mar, James Allen, John and Winthrop, Sea Breeze, Wanderer, Horatio and Bonanza, one each; Alice Knowles, Andrew Hicks, F. A. Barson, Mariana, and Bounding Bellow, two each; Josephine, six; Josephine, four; Narwhal, three; Orcas, eight; Newport, four; Belport, one; Grampus, three; Hunter, nine, and Thrasher, eleven. It is thought that the catch will be doubled before the fleet gets back to San Francisco.

TERIBLY BURNED.

A Boy Thrown into a Boiling Cauldron.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] An unfortunate accident occurred this afternoon by which a fourteen-year-old boy, J. V. Pettit, may be crippled for life. The California Petroleum and Paving Company is paving Temple street with bituminous rock or asphalt, and some boys have been annoying the men engaged in boiling the stuff preparatory to spreading it on the street. The Pettit boy happened along and a man, supposing him to be one of the lads who had annoyed him, caught the child and held him over the seething cauldron to scare him. The child put his right hand into himself and stuck it into the cauldron up to the elbow, cooking the flesh to the bone. The poor child is suffering great agony.

EVANS AND SONTAG.

They Are Now Said to Have Been Seen in Guaymas.

GUAYMAS (Mexico), Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] News of the doings of Evans and Sontag, the California train robbers, has reached Guaymas and copies of San Francisco papers received here containing the accounts are the more eagerly perused from the fact that two strangers resembling the printed description of Sontag and Evans have been seen here by a number of persons, including United States Vice-Counsel Hinsdale during the past week. On observing that their movements were being watched, the two have disappeared, and are believed to have taken passage on the steamer Kortright, for Santa Rosalia, Lower California.

COSTLY BLAZE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

The explosion of a lantern carried by a watchman this morning set fire to the two great stables of Stetson, Drennen & Co., dry-goods, Bryant street, and destroyed those buildings, together with fifteen small dwellings adjoining. Twelve horses were burned to death and fifty trucks, wagons and other vehicles were destroyed. Stetson & Co. are the heaviest losers and estimate their loss at between $25,000 and $30,000, with no insurance. The insurance on the other buildings is small.

The meetings are interesting and the attendance large.

A NEW COMET DISCOVERED.

HAMILTON, Oct. 13.—A very faint comet was discovered by E. E. Barnard at the Lick Observatory October 12 by photography. Visual observations on the night of the 13th show the comet to be about 1' in diameter. It is of the thirteenth magnitude and is moving southeast 1° 40' daily. Its position on the 13th at 7:20, standard Pacific time, was right ascension 19h 34m, north declination 12° 30'. This is the first comet to be discovered by aid of photography.

A LONG OVERDUE SHIP ARRIVES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The ship Hawaiian Isles, Capt. Kastel, arrived in port this morning 189 days from Swansea. The ship had been given up by the English shipwrights and had been refitted in the city as high as 75% cost. There were nine cases of mercury on board, and it is feared four of the men will die. The vessel was ordered into quarantine.

Oct. 13.—The Star's Nogales special says that while Deputy Sheriff Casanega and Special Officer Charles Winston were attempting to arrest three drunken Yaqui Indians, near Calabazas, this morning, the latter opened fire on their pursuers, shooting Winston through the fleshly part of the left leg. The Indians escaped to the hills.

THE WOMEN LOVES MATHEMATICS.

THE WONDERFUL WORK OF MRS. ELIZABETH BROWN DAVIS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Davis, who resides at No. 883 South Union avenue, this city, stands among the foremost mathematicians in this country. She computes the ephemeris of the sun for the Nautical Almanac and is the wife of Arthur Powell Davis, who has charge of the branch office of the Geological Survey in this city, where they have resided for several months. Speaking of Mrs. Davis, the New York Tribune of recent dates says:

Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Brown Davis, who computes the ephemeris of the sun for the Nautical Almanac, is a woman less than 30 years old, and a remarkable mathematician. She was a school teacher in Washington for many years, but having shown an aptness for figures, and having been mentioned to Prof. Newcomb, of the Nautical Almanac office, he employed her to read some proofs and verify a few calculations. She was also compelled to compute a table of logarithms for a book published in her name, and she has solved several mathematical problems conspicuously.

Meantime, she kept up her course of study in the Columbian University, where she graduated in 1886. Shortly before this she was admitted to the class of actuaries by discovering and correcting an error in one of La Place's tables that had for years resulted in inconsistencies puzzling to astronomers throughout the world. Her discovery was communicated to the Washington Observatory and copyrighted by the Smithsonian Institution, which is said to greatly facilitate the work of the computers.

A TIMES reporter went out to see Mrs. Davis the other morning, and found a young and handsome Southern woman, not yet 30 years of age, who is quite as enthusiastic over the charms of her little baby daughter, Florence Newcomb Davis, as over her mathematical triumphs. She is the daughter of Maj. Brown of Virginia and was educated in Washington, D. C. She spoke modestly but enthusiastically of her work. The diamanic is always published three years.

Upon Chicago, October 20, 21 and 22—Our Columbian Number.

On the 20th, 21st and 22d of October, at the World's Fair grounds in Chicago, will take place the imposing dedication exercises which are to usher in the quadro-centennial anniversary of the discovery of America by immortal Christopher Columbus.

The LOS ANGELES TIMES has fixed upon this historic and glorious date for the issuance of a special illustrated COLUMBIAN NUMBER. It will consist of twenty-four pages, besides a four-page illustrated supplement, showing the California building, the other World's Fair buildings, and Los Angeles local views.

The city and county of Los Angeles and the other southern counties will be adequately described, their resources and advantages truly depicted.

Brilliant and graphic reports from the center of interest, Chicago, will be published. There will be an elaborate mail description of the buildings and grounds and of the imposing preparations for 1893; also a luminous special telegraphic report of the opening dedicatory exercises on the 20th inst. A second edition will contain also the impressive proceedings, on the 21st, of what will doubtless prove one of the most notable gatherings in the history of America.

Large editions of the COLUMBIAN NUMBER will be printed. Applications for space, for descriptive articles with illustrations, and for copies in quantities continue to be made at the counting-room and by mail.

For a partial mention of special features see large advertisement.

they are then urging that iron ought to be classed among the luxuries and fruits, and sugar among the necessities of life. It is, as we stated, a very elastic doctrine; and may be stretched to suit any particular requirement. In some States wool may be classed as a luxury, in others hides or barley or tin. Indeed there has been considerable talk already about paying $15,000,000 per annum for the luxury of manufacturing our own tin. Anything may be a luxury if you only bring the right kind of sophistry to bear upon it.

It strikes us, however, that this sort of argument is entirely too thin to be taken by the American people in large doses. The relations between the various States are too intimate, the telegraph ramifies too generally through the land, and the newsgatherer is too active to allow this sort of delusion to be worked effectively in different sections. The people of various States are bound to compare notes, and then they must see that the Democratic politicians are playing fast and loose with them. The free-traders are seeking to be all things to all men, and they are very sure to make a mess of it. Anybody with a grain of sense must know that the protective system must be maintained as a comprehensive policy or it cannot be maintained at all. The true producers of California must realize that they cannot consistently ask protection on their own particular products if the producers of other articles in other States are to be subjected to the inroads of free trade. If our California producers should set out to establish such a selfish and narrow policy they would soon realize what an insignificant factor California really is when compared to the whole Union. In other words, our luxurious special protectionists on their own hook would be beautifully left in the lurch. And they ought to be.

In the South, which is the big end of the Democratic party, the free-trade plank is, as we intimated, vulgarized. It is hard and fast and solid. It means free trade and nothing else. It means taking the duty off imported raisins and wines just as much as taking the duty off iron and wool. And, if the Democratic party should be successful in the forthcoming election, the South would dictate the policy of the Government in this respect. Any special promises made by Democratic orators in California or in any other Republican State would not be considered binding. And we have no doubt that, with the sentiment that now prevails in the South, nothing would give the people of that section greater pleasure than to see every manufacturing and productive industry in the North crippled or destroyed. That is the measure of their patriotism. They do not care to have high wages maintained for American mechanics. Cheap labor is one of the tenets handed down to them from the days of slavery, and they will hold to that doctrine until they are born again.

The American people should not be deluded by this false and fraudulent free-trade issue, and we believe they should be. That he had transcended the bonds of philanthropy; that he had made a fool of himself; that he had perpetrated a cruel injustice upon his own flesh and blood. We cannot get away from the fact that charity and duty and fealty begin at home, and that one who does an injustice to his own is worse than the heathen.

So it is well enough to circumscribe these large, beautiful and abstract ideas of the brotherhood of man and the free markets of the world with a wholesome consideration for the interests of ourselves and our neighbors and the people of our own Nation. We can afford to be generous, but not too generous. We cannot afford to reduce ourselves to poverty in order to benefit in a small degree the whole human race.

Now, the Democrats in this campaign find themselves in a very delicate and a very awkward position. They must urge the proposition of free trade with all its abstract beauties without bringing it too closely home. They feel that they would have small prospects of success if they asked people to voluntarily sacrifice their own business prosperity in order to promote the Democratic cause of free trade. Hence, the anti-slavery plank of their platform is endorsed with all the physical properties of India rubber. In the South it is vulcanized rubber, stiff and hard; in the various Northern States it possesses various degrees of elasticity, and is stretched to fit each particular requirement. Thus, in California the Democratic orators know it would be folly to ask fruit-growers to join with them in breaking down the tariff on fruits and fruit products with the understanding that thereby they would cripple their own industry. They know that the California producer cannot afford to work as cheaply as the foreign producer, and that he cannot hire labor as cheaply. If the markets of the country were freely opened to foreign competition, there must be an end to the exportation of fresh and dried fruits from this State. We could then raise enough for home consumption and the rest would have to rot. The same principle applies to wine-producers and the same (with the abolition of the bounty) to the growers of beets and the manufacturers of beet sugar. So the free-trade plank of the Democratic platform is here subjected to one of its mightiest stretches. The plausible Democratic orators say to us, in effect:

"Our declaration that the tariff is a fraud and that in principle it is unconstitutional is meant to be construed in a Pickwickian sense. We hold that it is unconstitutional in the abstract, but not in the concrete. In other words, we are in favor of free trade, but agin' its enforcement—in this particular neck o' woods. We think it is a durn thing to put a high tariff on luxuries, and we hold that raisins, prunes, dried peaches and apricots, wines and sugar are luxuries. Therefore you are going to get in out of the wet when our glorious free-trade deluge comes. But iron and wool, and tin and clothing—they are not luxuries, and to protect them would be a Republican fraud, and unconstitutional besides."

This is the little argument fixed up for California. What the particular phase of the argument is for Pennsylvania, where their chief product is iron, we do not know, but we presume that

Dated October 13, 1892.

PATRICK O'LEARY CONVICTED.

A Highway Robber Who was Disposed of in Short Order.

Patrick O'Leary, the individual who recently attempted to follow the example set by Pickpocket Davis, of walking out of Judge Smith's courtroom during the temporary absence of the bailiff, appeared in Department One yesterday for trial upon the charge of having assaulted Martin Thannes with intent to commit robbery, on the morning of September 8 last.

The jurors selected to try the case were: J. Q. Adams, E. W. Bowsworth, H. A. Draper, W. Dockstader, E. W. Failor, A. F. Gillmore, N. H. Hughes, J. A. Paxton, J. Quill, W. Rector, C. A. Robinson and L. M. Russell.

The following witnesses were called and examined for the prosecution: Martin Thannes, B. Grasse, A. P. Ford, F. Trewiler, Deputy Sheriff C. L. Cruz and Jailer W. H. Russell.

Their testimony was to the effect that about 1 o'clock in the morning of September 8 last Thannes, Grasse and Trewiler and two others left a saloon on the corner of Alameda and Turner street where they had been drinking, and after a friendly dispute as to whether or not they should walk or hire a hack to take them up to the Pico House, where they were rooming, started on foot for their destination. Three of them were together, but Thannes and Grasse followed in single file several yards apart. Thannes was blinded by a sudden blow in the face, followed almost instantly by a tug at his watch chain, but instinctively he grabbed for his assailant and his right hand closed on a man's wrist with a grip like that of a vice. He then took the watch and chain away from his prisoner and slipped it in his pants pocket. The thief broke away, however, and as Grasse was along, grabbed his vest, tearing all the buttons off, and made dive for a pocketbook inside. Grasse yelled at the top of his voice and Thannes and Trewiler went to the rescue, but the thief again escaped and ran up Jackson street. Special Officer Ford, attracted by the cry, ran up and on learning the cause of the outcry gave chase and finally ran O'Leary to earth in a blind alley. The thief ingeniously claimed that he ran away because the three men had attempted to rob him, hoping thereby to secure his release, but Ford, in order to make assurance doubly sure, took both thief and victim into custody and marched them to the station. There O'Leary was readily identified by Thannes and Grasse and was locked up after a desperate attempt to fight his accusers.

The story of his attempted escape and recapture by Jailer Russell was related to the jury, and the prosecution closed.

The defendant, a hard-looking citizen, apparently about 30 years of age, then testified in his own behalf to the effect that as he emerged from the saloon five drunken men set upon him, and, after a desperate fight, he succeeded in knocking two of them down and escaping. He denied all knowledge of any attempt to rob Thannes of his watch or Grasse of his pocketbook.

A witness named Tom Dormity was then called, and testified that the defendant was a professional boxer, but during their five years' acquaintance he had never heard anything derogatory to O'Leary's character for honesty. In view of the fact that in the lower court O'Leary had sworn that he had only just arrived in town a few hours before the fight from Benicia, where he had left a vessel in which he sailed around the Horn from Wales, this testimony gave the prosecutor a strong advantage, and the defendant was forced to acknowledge himself a liar before the jury. The result was that ten minutes after the case had been submitted to that body it returned into court with a verdict of conviction, and O'Leary was ordered to appear for sentence on Monday next.

The result was that ten minutes after the case had been submitted to that body it returned into court with a verdict of conviction, and O'Leary was ordered to appear for sentence on Monday next.

Court Note.—The defendant, a witness named Tom Dormity, was then called, and testified that the defendant was a professional boxer, but during their five years' acquaintance he had never heard anything derogatory to O'Leary's character for honesty. In view of the fact that in the lower court O'Leary had sworn that he had only just arrived in town a few hours before the fight from Benicia, where he had left a vessel in which he sailed around the Horn from Wales, this testimony gave the prosecutor a strong advantage, and the defendant was forced to acknowledge himself a liar before the jury. BUSINESS.FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13, 1892.
Sales of California fruit in Eastern cities are proving very satisfactory this season, judging from the daily dispatches. Besides the auctions in Chicago, New York may now be said to be in permanent demand, New Orleans reports sales almost daily at fair prices.

Ranch eggs continue in very moderate supply, and prices are unchanged. Eastern eggs are quoted a trifle higher today.

The butter market is unchanged, fancy brands bringing top quotations.

Somebody Shoots at a Chinaman in the Darkness.

Thursday's Budget of Local News Briefly Summed Up—The Fall Season Opens Briskly—Personal Notes and Brevities.

Leow Sing, the Chinaman who was plain-tiff in a case a few days ago before Justice Rose, tells of a strange escapade he had Wednesday evening. While on his way home about dusk from the place where he works, on San Pasqual street, he noticed a man riding by the roadside near the intersection of La Brea and Calle Intersección street. Just after he had passed the highwayman or whatever else he was fired several shots in quick succession. Sing lost no time in dropping to the ground, and after the last shot was fired he ran as fast as he could, reeling bloody minded all the time. A team was hitched near by that evidently belonged to the man in hiding, whose identity so far is a complete mystery. The police are looking up the trail, and the offender may be brought to justice.

WOMAN'S FAIR AUXILIARY.

A special meeting of the Woman's World's Fair Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Carlton parlors. The attendance was unusually large and the meeting was specially appointed for the consideration of the constitution and by-laws, which were presented but not passed upon at the last meeting.

The constitution, including five articles, was passed section by section, and on motion was adopted. The by-laws, eight in number, were also favorably passed upon, with a slight amendment added to number four. This article, which has been introduced into the by-laws makes the term of office to which president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer is elected cover a period of six months only, the present term of office thus expiring January 1, when an election of new officers will take place.

An adjournment was taken at the conclusion of this business, but the ladies remained and discussed other matters of importance to the organization, the plan of having an indoor super-marché model of Pasadena, showing her mountains, valley, principal streets, hotels and private residences was fully discussed and thought to be a feasible plan. It was suggested that it be submitted to the members of the prominent business men of town in this enterprise, which would necessarily require a large amount of money. To this end it was proposed to call a general mass-meeting at an early date, probably October 18, be it adjourned—inviting the business men of Pasadena to present and lay the plans of the association before them. Artists to make the proposed model could be obtained in New York or San Francisco, and the project is one of great magnitude, but the ladies are very anxious and confident of being able to accomplish much.

At a special meeting of the Entertainment Committee held Tuesday evening, Mrs. Williams, who was elected unanimously to the position of chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and yesterday accepted the office.

The interest of the ladies, in spite of many discouragements, holds out every hope that their energetic efforts are deserving of great praise.

TUESDAY PASADENA SOCIAL EVENT.

Tuesday evening Mrs. N. Gregory, wife of the pastor of the Baptist Church, South Pasadena, entertained some forty young people at her home in a delightful manner. The party was composed of her Sunday-school classes in South Pasadena and Alhambra, also the children of both places. Beautiful refreshments were served and the evening spent pleasantly in singing and games. The Pansy Band presented each guest with a small bunch of pansies.

Although W. C. Stuart has never taken a music lesson in his life, he is one of the most accomplished organists in town. He hardly knows one note from another and yet he manipulates the keys of the instrument with a master hand.

For the past year he has sold so far to persons who will attend the great Republican rally in Los Angeles tomorrow night. Enough money has been subscribed to pay all the current expenses. The Pasadena band will accompany the party.

Through the thoughts of G. M. McKinney, the horse car service makes it possible for a large number of people to attend the Y.M.C.A. meetings, who would otherwise be unable to do so. Several cars run in connection with the evening meetings.

A large number of people have bought tickets to see Dan'l Sully in "The Millionaire." In it there is an opportunity for a bold, honest and enterprising Irishman to distinguish himself, and Mr. Sully, as James O'Brien, accepts the challenge. It is described as a good seat, so speak, and proved a medium for him to make the transit from the farcical comedy of the trashy order to the legitimate comedy stage.

Through the enterprise of a few of the members of the bus service has again been secured the services of Dan'l Sully. Beginning Sunday, busses will connect with the Terminal trains. They will run west on Colorado street to Grand avenue, thence south to Ellee street, thence to Orange street, then south to Colorado street, and return by the same route. The bus will run every hour on week days and once a week will meet with the train and connect with church services Sunday mornings.

Tomorrow afternoon the Y.M.C.A. athletes will give an exhibition of athletic sports at the Atlantic Park on Raymond avenue. The track race needs to be put in shape for the event. Each Y.M.C.A. will enter two members and an account of prowess will be kept. It is also proposed to have a secretaries' race and other interesting events. An improved gymnasium will be opened up in the Thorneycroft today and a class exhibition will follow this evening's exercises.

Unfinished School Buildings to Be Completed—A World's Fair Episode.

At last a definite conclusion has been reached in regard to the unfinished school buildings. The attorney for Goodwin's bondsmen, in consultation with City Attorney Bell, has concluded that, although the bondsmen are ready and anxious to go on with the contract, the city cannot legally pay them money except under a specific and separate contract. Accordingly, the Board of Trade has been convened for the completion of the buildings. The bids will be opened October 28, and the work begun as soon as the bids are accepted. This will cause a delay, together with the time the contractor has been absent of about three weeks, but the Board of Education hopes to make the proposed model could be obtained in New York or San Francisco, and the project is one of great magnitude, but the ladies are very anxious and confident of being able to accomplish much.

At a special meeting of the Entertainment Committee held Tuesday evening, Mrs. Williams, who was elected unanimously to the position of chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and yesterday accepted the office.

Fine Weather Brings Out a Large Crowd to the Races.

The Free-for-all Race Finally Won by Our Dick, While McKinney Captured the Open Trot in Straight Heats—Some Kicking.

SAN BERNARDINO.

Yesterday was a day of enthusiasm and pleasure at the race track. Everybody wanted to see the big trotting race between McKinney, Shylock and Richmond, Jr., and to see the great side-wheeler show off under favorable circumstances. The fine weather was inviting and a large number of spectators turned out to keep up at nearly the same rate all the month.

The cannery will pack oranges and lemons this winter, making all shipments under an Ontario brand.

The post office business for the quarter ending October 1 shows an increase of over 25 percent over that of the corresponding quarter last year, a good sign of summer prosperity.

The first heat of the big pacing race, which started off amid great enthusiasm on the part of the spectators. The horses came on the track at the advertised time and the start was made. But the race was not so interesting as the second, which was more exciting.

McKinney won the first heat and Tom Ryder given the lead by several rods and permitted to hold to the end of the heat, the two horses closing in slightly at the finish. Tom Ryder took the lead in the second heat and W. Wood two lengths behind him. The next heat was a much better one and faster time was made. The three kept together throughout the heat, finishing within half a length of the leader, W. Wood, who won in 2:14 1/4. The exhibit of World's Fair fruit is one of the features of the fair, that put up by the cannery especially attracting a great deal of attention.

Most of the trustees find themselves unable to provide properly for all the school children, and if a suitable room can be secured an additional teacher will be employed. Another election for a special tax will be called, and it is believed that with the kind-hearted feature eliminated there will be no opposition.

Extensive preparations are being made by the schools for the observance of Columbus day.

Andrews, the Youthful Forger, Also Held to Appear Before the Superior Court—An Old Offender Again in Trouble.

The examination of George Ford, the negro murderer who killed Daniel Sands, his wife's lover last week, was continued in Justice Owen's department of the Police Court yesterday afternoon.

Half a dozen witnesses were examined for the people, but no new evidence was brought out. Ford's attorney decided to introduce no evidence and the defendant was held for trial in the Superior Court, with bail fixed at $10,000. He could not secure bondsmen and was committed to the custody of the Sheriff.

Young Andrews.
